the UK's spookiest newspaper column

FIGHT ... are aliens battling to control Earth, like in the film Independence Day?

Have aliens been living among us?

By MIKE HALLOWELL

MY first dalliance with the world of the unexplained occurred when I was 11 years old.

On holiday with my family in Chichester, Sussex, I purchased a second-hand copy of a book about UFOs. I read it all in three days and I've been hooked ever since.

One of the leading lights in the world of UFO research is the author Timothy Good, who has probably forgotten more about the subject than most people will ever know.

I caught up with Timothy recently and he was kind enough to grant me an exclusive interview for this column.

Ironically, Timothy Good first became interested in UFOs after reading a book about flying saucers by Major Donald E Keyhoe, an American Marine Corps officer – the very same book that had attracted my interest as a youngster. Since then he has amassed a wealth of evidence to suggest that UFOs are very real indeed.

I asked Timothy if he believed there had been a cover-up by governments in the US and the UK about the UFO subject.

“The truth is that very few people in government – even in the intelligence community – know what is going on.

“However, there are people out there who know the truth, or at least some of it”.

Timothy Good has written several best-selling books on the subject of UFOs, including Above Top Secret: The Worldwide UFO Cover-up (1987), Alien Liaison: The Ultimate Secret (1991) and Alien Base: Earth's Encounters With Extraterrestrials (1998).

BELIEF ... Timothy Good.

There is no doubt in Timothy's mind that the earth is being visited by extraterrestrial intelligence – and he's pretty much convinced that our uninvited guests include more than one species.

“Some extraterrestrials seem reasonably benign and possibly have humanity's best interests at heart. However, there are others that – putting it bluntly – simply want to gain control of our planet.”

The idea that there could actually be an off-world alien dogfight going on over the future of planet Earth seems like the stuff of science fiction movies, but if one takes an unbiased look at the facts Good has accumulated, it's hard to dismiss the notion.

However, if the concept of being visited by aliens – friendly or otherwise – is chilling, it could actually be a lot worse than we imagined.

“The truth is that some extraterrestrials have been on Earth a lot longer than we have – and they've already established secret bases on land and under the sea.”

Crazy? I don't think so. In Alien Base, for example, Good details the existence of covert alien bases in places as far apart as Pine Gap, in Australia, and the Gulf of Mexico.

The sheer amount of eyewitness accounts alone is compelling. Tales of hunters seeing bizarre craft rise out of the ground before silently shooting off into the atmosphere, and sailors seeing similar craft emerge from the sea, are not uncommon.

Timothy Good is an accomplished author and researcher, and these abilities alone make his testimony all the more chilling.

There may only be a handful of people who know the truth about UFOs, but the astonishing truth is that we may well be sharing our planet with extraterrestrials who have been here for thousands, if not millions, of years.
